Charges Police In Palestine Are Fascist

Lord Wedgwood has returned to charges in connection with the Palestine Police Force in the House of Lords. One of these was that there were more than 300 men who were so determined to leave the force that they committed technical military offences and served terms of imprisonment in order to get out of it. He alleged that their complaints were against a force which was prejudiced against the Jews. He quoted one of the men as having written: "Anti-Semitism in a violent shape is a moral convention with which recruits are imbued at the depot."

Lord Wedgwood was followed by Lord Morris, who said he hoped the Government would treat this "mare's nest" with contempt. He described how for nine months last year he had been employed as Military Prosecutor in Palestine. He received every morning in confidence a report of the work of the police and in his view there was no finer body of their kind.

Lord Wedgwood asked if Lord Morris would say whether they were anti-Semite or not. Lord Morris said they endeavoured to preserve that vital balance which was called for.

Lord Cranborne, in replying for the Government, spoke of the interviews which the Colonial Office had given to the young constables of whom Lord Wedgwood had spoken, reports the London Jewish Chronicle. One of their charges, he said, was that some of the senior members of the police force expressed rather improper views about the Jews in the mess. It was no doubt very regrettable and very wrong that they should express improper views about either Jews or Arabs. But it was not surprising that they should speak freely in private. But that was not going to affect the propriety of their behaviour as constables.

So far as the really serious charges which Lord Wedgwood [illegible] could make, Lord Wedgwood that the Colonial Secretary would make the most careful inquiries into any individual instance which he had mentioned. If there was substance in his complaint, the Government would take the necessary steps to prevent a repetition.

Lord Wedgwood, replying, alleged that in spite of what Lord Morris had said they had a force in Palestine which was undoubtedly extremely Fascist at the present time.

Lord Cranborne: No it is not. I absolutely deny that. There is no foundation whatever for the noble lord's statement.

Lord Samuel said it might be that there were some abuses in the Palestine Police. But if any of the things prevailed such as had been described by Lord Wedgwood certainly they would have come to his ears during recent visits and he had heard nothing of the kind.

Lord Strabolgi said he was sure the speech they had heard from Lord Wedgwood would cause a certain amount of inquiry in the Colonial Office, and if there were things, which even on the admission of Lord Samuel might exist, it was to be hoped that they would be eradicated.

JEWS IN HUNGARY GET A BREAK

The Official Gazette of Budapest published a government decision to the effect that henceforth Jewish families serving in obligatory auxiliary labor organizations should receive the same wages as other Hungarian families. Hitherto, the rate paid to Jews was approximately 40 per cent less.

Meanwhile, in accordance with an agreement reached between Berlin and Budapest, the first contingent of 30,000 Hungarian laborers at present in Germany is about to be repatriated. The second group of a similar number of farm workers is expected in the near future and negotiations have begun in Berlin with a view of obtaining the return of four of Hungary's six divisions at present holding the Voronezh front.

Norway, Sweden Befriend Jews

Patriotic Norwegians sheltered 900 Jews who managed to escape deportation to Poland. The majority were kept hidden in the countryside. Collections for their maintenance were made throughout the country, although the police have orders to confiscate all such collections and to arrest the organizers.

A few Jews who have been allowed permission to stay in Norway must report daily to the police.

A courageous clergyman who was reviled by the Nazi press for his outspoken condemnation of the anti-Jewish cruelties is Ivar Lange, of Fredriksberg, who told confirmation candidates that he would rather die with a Jew than live with a Nazi.

Further condemnation has come from Sweden. The Free Church Collaboration Committee, the Swedish Oecumenical Council, and 21 women's organizations have published statements expressing horror at the Nazi outrages, while a leading paper, Nya Dagligt Allehanda, states that the whole Swedish nation supports the bishops in their recent protest, and "absolutely opposes and will never accept the unnecessary brutish cruelty which accompanies that death-bringing pest, racial hatred."

Bishop Mueller, leader of the Swedish Catholics, has addressed a letter to the Protestant Archbishop Eidem expressing his support of the Swedish bishops' protest against racial persecution. "It fills our hearts with acute pain and horror," he declared, "to know that all over Europe the Jews are being persecuted, tortured, and killed." A day of prayer for the persecuted, particularly the Jews, was observed in Swedish Catholic churches.

Quisling spoke at Trondheim and said that the only solution of the Jewish problem was for the Jews to leave Europe for some very remote island. He suggested that he said his party had perhaps treated the Jews "too leniently." Dagens Nyheter, of Stockholm, asks the "human" Quisling why he opposed the idea of Sweden taking care of the Norwegian Jews, mostly the aged and children, who are still left.

Meanwhile, Quisling is disappointed. His confiscation of Jewish property has proved a fiasco. Far from the Jews possessing fortunes, many were dependent on Jewish charitable funds, which have now been confiscated.

Professor Israel Holmgren, of Sweden, has been sentenced to four months' imprisonment for issuing a pamphlet entitled "The Nazi Hell." The court held that parts of the pamphlet contained defamatory statements about Germany's sovereignty and system of government, and thus infringed the press freedom law.

Professor Holmgren, who is to appeal, maintained that everything he had said concerning Germany and the conditions there was objectively true. There was no challenge as to the correctness of Professor Holmgren's allegations. As he had not couched his statements in a form which could be regarded as defamatory, he added, he had not been guilty of a criminal offence.

One of the reasons the Nazis dislike Professor Holmgren is that he exposed an alleged pro-Nazi quisling plot in 1940.

The Nazis are renewing their pressure on the Danish Cabinet to enact Jew-laws. The Premier, Scavenius, in a secret meeting with the Danish Foreign Office, gave the warning that although he did not want Jew-laws in Denmark, the Jewish problem was rapidly becoming a European question, and for that reason it might come to the fore in Denmark. The Nazi envoy, Werner Best, is said to be busy in the background. King Christian is putting up an opposition to the anti-Semites.

As a preliminary step, the Cabinet issued an order providing for the registration of all Jews and persons of Jewish origin.

The Minister of Education recently ordered theatres to dismiss Jewish actors and employees. They refused, declaring that they would rather close than yield to such Nazi demands.

A German demand that Finland should surrender 100 emigrants, mostly Jews, has been rejected by the Government, although some of its members, including the Foreign Minister, were ready to comply with the demand, reports Dagens Nyheter, of Stockholm.

"The question seems to have been postponed," the paper adds, "and Finland has escaped the ignominy of buying food with human lives." M. Fagerholm, the Welfare Minister, is said to have threatened

NAMES OF FRENCH DEPORTEES, OVER 5,000, RECEIVED

From its overseas offices, the Joint Distribution Committee has received lists containing the names of more than 5,000 Jews who last summer and fall were taken from various internment camps in unoccupied France for deportation to the Nazi East. It was announced this week. The lists, which have been carded and indexed, account for more than a third of the Jews expelled from unoccupied France until Hitler seized that territory on November 11 last.

Interested persons may make inquiry at the office of the Joint Distribution Committee, 100 East 42nd Street New York City.

Most of the lists furnish the nationality and age of each deportee, and in all cases the date and name of the internment camp from which deportation took place are given.

In rare instances, the J.D.C. pointed out, a deportee managed to escape from the trains going to Eastern Europe. This may account for an occasional inaccurate listing of an individual as deported when he may actually be safe in Spain or Switzerland. Apart from this possibility, it is believed that the lists are authentic.

Swiss May Apply Refugee Law Almost Dead Letter

Reports from Zurich and Berne, Switzerland, say that the refugee question has become so important that the government is contemplating a drastic application of the law concerning them which of late, by popular opinion, had become almost a dead letter.

The law, which was promulgated Oct. 17, 1939, required that every person clandestinely crossing the frontier should be expelled. Before that there had been a general belief that Switzerland had offered the right of asilyum to the oppressed of all mankind.

After the debacle in France and the occupation of Norway, Denmark and the Low Countries by the Germans in 1940 the law was enforced in many cases, but where an expulsion might mean death to the expelled persons internment camps were established for them in Switzerland.

These camps now contain 5,800 refugees — nearly the maximum capacity — while outside the number of legal immigrants can only be accommodated to the extent of 1,200 and at most 2,000. On the French frontier there are said to be waiting for an opportunity to come through over 100,000 Belgian, Dutch and French refugees.

In these trying circumstances the Minister of Justice, Councillor von Stieger, made a speech to the National Council, part addressed to the public and part to the council, whom he urged to enforce the law of 1939 without any exceptions. To the public he said that Switzerland could care for no more refugees, however, much the people might yearn to do so; he then proceeded to summarize the government's view thus:

The "right" of asylum is not a right in the juridical sense;

Mass entry of refugees cannot be compared with isolated cases and represents a danger to inner security;

Switzerland can hardly be considered as a transit country;

Counting the refugees in Switzerland before the war the total number is now not 5,800 but 9,600.

Expenditure on behalf of refugees since the beginning of the war is about £1,000,000, of which the government has paid £250,000;

The secret entry of refugees must be combatted owing to the danger of infectious diseases.

Sent Anti-Jewish Pamphlets, Guilty Of Sedition

A Federal Court jury in Chicago found Neville Mecartney, Chicago attorney, and two other men guilty of sedition through distribution of scurrilous statements about President Roosevelt and inciting insubordination in the armed forces.

The grand jury indicted the men jointly on seven counts, charging utterance and printing of seditious statements. Among pamphlets they circulated were those entitled "The British, an Inferior Breed" and "The Jew Makes a Sacrifice: The Forthcoming Collapse of America."

The jury convicted Elmer Hartzell, recently employed by the Pullman-Standard Car Company, on all seven counts of the indictment. Mecartney and Elmer Soller, formerly employed on a German-language newspaper, were found guilty of conspiracy and two counts of the indictment. The jurors deliberated six and one-half hours before reaching a verdict.

Hartzell was charged with mailing the seditious pamphlets anonymously from Detroit and Wyandotte, Mich., in 1941 and from Chicago in June and August of this year.

The pamphlets were mailed to business and political organizations, labor unions, universities and colleges, sororities and fraternities and to individuals subject to the draft.

Under the conviction Mecartney and Soller are liable to a maximum of sixty years in prison and a $10,000 fine or both. Hartzell may

Warns Post-War Rush Outward To Be Stemmed

Asserting that "there is grave danger of a new rush outward as soon as the opportunity occurs," Sir Herbert Emerson, High Commissioner for Refugees of the League of Nations writing in the January issue of Foreign Affairs on "The postwar problems of refugees," declares that "it must be the business of the United Nations to see that this does not happen."

Sir Herbert, who is also Director of the Intergovernmental Committee in Refugees in London, suggests four methods whereby new homes will be found for the refugees; return to their own countries; absorption in the countries of temporary asylum; normal emigration, and large-scale settlements. Reviewing these various prospects, he writes:

"After the war some time is likely to pass before the ebb and flow of migration reverts even to prewar conditions (in which, it will be recalled, many restrictions were in operation). In ordinary circumstances, emigration provides outlets for the overflow of populations by spreading it over countries where it can be put to use economically, with benefit to all. This presupposes a reasonable degree of stability in the countries of reception, a factor likely to be absent or uncertain immediately after the war . . . .

"We would be unwise to assume that the capacity or the will of countries to receive immigrants will be unlimited in the years immediately following the end of the war. To find homes for the refugees we shall certainly have to re-to resign if the Jews were surrendered.

Nevertheless, it is reported that under the influence of the pro-Nazi Chief of Police, and apparently with the tacit approval of the Home Minister, but not of the Cabinet, the deportation of foreign Jews to a concentration camp on Hogland Island, where they are made to work on fortifications, has been going on since the summer.

CASUALTY LIST

The parents of the late Flt/Sgt. William Nelson Shumsky, who was killed during a raid over enemy territory in August, have received word from the International Red Cross in Geneva that their son was buried with full military honours at Gosselies, which lies four miles north of Charleroi, Belgium. Flt/Sgt. Shumsky, a native of Winnipeg, received his education at the Isaac Newton and the Daniel McIntyre collegiate schools. He was employed with a motor firm in Fort William before he enlisted in May 1940 and went overseas in August 1941.

The name of Pilot Officer Joseph Ash, J10980, appeared on the 668th casualty list issued by the R.C.A.F. Headquarters in Ottawa as missing after air operations overseas. Pilot Officer Ash graduated from the No. 3 Initial Training School at Victoriaville, Quebec, and received his commission only a short time ago.

His father, Abraham Ash, lives at 1339 Wellington Street, Ottawa.

A Glace Bay, N.S. Jewish instructor in the R.C.A.F., Pilot Officer Tommy Marshal was killed in a plane crash just before the New Year near Belleville, Ont. His mother is Mrs. R. Marshall, 71 Brookside Street, Glace Bay, N.S. P/O Marshall, C12580 had been commissioned only a month before his death.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Gotlieb, 3765 Esplanade Avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rose, to Hy. Anchel, son of Mrs. F. Anchel, 5289 Esplanade Avenue, and the late S. Anchel, the wedding to take place next fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Robbins, of Winnipeg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy, formerly of Winnipeg, to Isaac, son of Mrs. C. Frishling and the late Louis Frishling, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Weiser, 457 Cutfield Avenue, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Pearl, to Louis, son of M. Haber, of Montreal, and the late Mrs. Clara Haber.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Siblin, 4546 Esplanade Avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ethel, to Reuben, only son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Zaguloff, Jeanne Mance Street.

Exactly a year after he reached Great Britain with the R.C.A.F., Sergeant Pilot Norman Raithlatt, of Toronto, was reported missing. The 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Raithlatt, Evelyn Avenue, he was a native of Toronto and a graduate of the Runnymede and Humberside Schools. He enlisted in March, 1941, and was posted to a French-Canadian bomber squadron overseas which has figured in many large raids on Germany in recent months. Besides his parents, he has a brother, David, and a sister, Section Officer Frances Raithlatt of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

Flight Sergeant Marcus Mortimer Vineberg, R.C.A.F., was listed missing after air operations overseas. Flt. Sgt. Vineberg is a Sherbrooke man, son of S. A. Vineberg, 119 King Street West.

Flt. Sergeant Moses Zumar was listed missing after air operations overseas.

His father, Israel Zumar, lives at 68 Marlborough Avenue, Ottawa. Two other brothers are also serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas. One of them, Pilot Officer Harry Zumar, of Ottawa, was flying over the Bay of Biscay off the coast of France. The weather was bad; low, heavy clouds scudded before a gale. Driving rain reduced visibility at times to nil. Lightning crackled all around, and peals of thunder reverberated through every part of the airplane. Base headquarters had recalled Pilot Officer Zumar; but he did not receive the signal. He carried on with his task, the grimmest task of his life. He was searching the wastes of the bay for his younger brother, Flight Sergeant Moses Zumar, a pilot of the Coastal Command's "Demon" Squadron, who had gone out on patrol the previous day and had not returned. Pilot Officer Zumar, captain of an aircraft belonging to an Air Sea Rescue Squadron stationed on the coast of England, searched the seas, often without sight of the enemy coast, for "ditched" bomber crews. He had saved many of them. Now he had hopes of saving his own brother. He implored his commanding officer to let him go. The officer agreed, and the flight commander went with him. Zumar did two trips to the extreme limit of his aircraft's endurance. He satisfied himself that Moe and his crew were not drifting around the bay in a dinghy.

The above material came from the Canadian Jewish Congress.

THE BEER SHORTAGE

ON DECEMBER 16th, 1942, the Prime Minister of Canada announced that the Government had decided to reduce the sale of beer by 10% for the twelve months dating from November 1st, 1942.

Today there is a shortage of beer for consumers amounting to considerably [illegible]%.

We believe the public and the trade are entitled to a full explanation of the facts.

WHY 10% IS MORE THAN 10%

Because the Government announcement of the cut came in the second month after the order became effective, sales for November and December had already been provided for in accordance with demand. (The per capita consumption of beer has not appreciably increased, but the high level of employment has naturally increased the number of consumers.)

Now, in order that the cut for the year ending Oct. 31, 1943 should total 10%, a reduction of much more than that is necessary for the first few months of 1943. This "levelling off" process is in progress because it is the only way in which the Government regulations can be carried out.

A DISTRIBUTION, FAIR TO ALL

We are doing everything possible to assure a fair distribution of the quantities permitted. In the meantime, we would ask you to remember that the new regulations came to everyone without adequate warning, in the second month after the effective date, so that no planning in advance was possible.

There is no actual shortage of beer supplies in Canada, since beer is brewed from Canadian-grown ingredients, not required for the war effort; but announcement of the curtailment, coming so late, has resulted in a more acute shortage than the Government regulations were designed to bring about.

We regret that this situation has arisen. We are doing everything possible to reduce any inconvenience that is being experienced by the general public and our friends in the trade.

Commentaries

By Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi

The Goodness Of Life Even In The Present Tragedy

There is a Talmudic record that the Rabbinical Academies of Shamai and that of Hillel debated the ever-engaging problem: "Is the creating of man justified?" for a period of two and a half years. Finally an agreement was reached between the contending schools of thought that it would have been better if man had not been born. But since God gave life to man, let man therefore fill his life with good deeds.

In these years of tragedy how often have we who do any thinking whatsoever been assailed by doubt as to the value of the world and life itself. Like unto the disciples of Hillel and Shamai, our souls have been shaken by the question: what's the use? What is the meaning of all that is taking place on our planet? Who, reading the authentic reports of two millions Jews done to death by the Nazis, can help falling into a pessimism and into the very pit of despair?

Yet there is something challenging about the dreadful present that persuades us to see the goodness of life. Of course, the present war tragedy is perfect horror but, accepting it, we must see beyond it. For, deep-rooted in the present war are the seeds of revolution which will bring added progress to the human race. Even as the [illegible]ance of spring which makes for the earth's resurrection is most often accompanied by gales and storms, so is it with new life entering in civilization's constant unfolding. The march of progress entails pain and travail. The 1917 Russian Revolution which shook the world is but now appreciated in terms of human advancement and in its destruction of tyranny and in its construction of economic brotherhood.

Life amidst the present horror is worth living if we resolve to meet it with courage and dignity. For one thing we must come to see the present as one of the greatest of ages in all human history. What an hour this is for those who see in it the birth of a truly new world. The people of India are reaching out desperately for their freedom to which they are entitled as children of the One God. The awakening [illegible] of China are [illegible] their own [illegible] right. For, indeed, freedom, true freedom, is universal and indivisible. Hence, amidst the agony of the present it is good to read that already Britain and the United States have renounced their extra-territorial rights in China. This is a good omen. Yes, indeed, we are at the crossroads of human destiny.

We are all participants in the unfoldment of this new human drama. We are all in the front line in whatever field we battle to establish, once for all, human redemption. That is why this war is truly a people's war, and if universal justice be truly founded the peace will have to be a peace formulated by the peoples themselves and not by few statesmen-politicians. The truly democratic view of history must come to prevail where the masses of men participate in the building of a new order, a peaceful order founded on righteousness.

Above all is this appalling tragedy a test of faith. Our faith is now being proved even as the faith of Job in the ancient drama was tried and tested. Now when every one of us is passing through the deep waters of affliction we can discern whether our faith is equal to our need.

Who if not the Jew in all history has proven the meaning of faith, the strength of faith? Amidst two thousand years of wandering and persecution it is faith and faith alone which solves the riddle of Israel's survival among the nations of the earth. "Though an host should encamp against me in this will I be confident," cried the Jew. Thus, through faith in God, in man and in the future the Jew met all and dared all.

Modern Jews, alas, must, if they are to meet nobly the present tragedy, return to deep faith; to the classic profound faith of their fathers. Modern Jews must again hug their Torahs, their sacred books, and meditate therein to find inspiration and courage to look beyond the present darkness. What a tragedy that the Torah-wise in Israel are pushed aside. No wonder so much defeatism has overtaken us. No wonder that we lack the glow of the optimists.

Israel now more than ever must return to his synagogue and academies of learning and through these learn that life is worthwhile even now. Like unto the disciples of Hillel and Shamai, we must come to know that this is a glorious age which must be invested in good deeds and in acts of loving-kindness, so that the better day may dawn for all mankind.

I Grieve Over It

It is heart-breaking to read of the strife that has overtaken the Jewish American scene now because of so-called anti-Zionist Rabbinical pronouncements and the founding of an American Council for Judaism. So some Reform Rabbis have rejected Zionism! The truth of the matter is that whether they accept Zionism or no, the world, both Jewish and non-Jewish, has for the most part accepted it both in its spiritual as well as in its political aspects. The very small number of our Reform Rabbis who still cling to a dying mid-nineteenth century outlook should not cause so much consternation. I know most of them and they, too, are lovers of Zion and admire the Palestinian Jewish revival, of course with different emphasis and from a different point of view.

It was indiscreet for these colleagues at this time when the whole house of Israel is set on fire to come forward with a blitzkrieg in the press of their particular point of view.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rancor
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an easier."

In answer to Prime Minister King's recent radio broadcast on temperance, the Canadian Breweries Limited submitted as paid advertising what it considers would have been a more suitable speech. Several passages of this alternative speech give the high lights:

"The use of beer, wine and spirits has for long been a controversial subject in Canada and from time to time your government is called upon to find a point of harmony between those who do not drink at all and would like all those beverages prohibited, and those who drink moderately and resent any interference with their liberty. If such a point of harmony would be found and the whole subject put outside politics and religion, it would be a good thing for Canada's unity in wartime, and later, in peace. . . . Moderation is the ideal which all good Canadians are eager to attain. . . . The problem reduces itself to one of dealing with a few irresponsible people who give the advocates of prohibition a falsely dramatic impression of current conditions. . . . Moderate people are invariably the ones to be deprived. . . . There is a great deal of medical evidence to prove that a hard-working man who drinks beer moderately, not only nourishes his system, but relieves the nervous and physical strain of his busy day. No one will want to deprive him of this form of relaxation, nor to make its availability so difficult that a worker on a night shift will have to resort to a bootlegger to get his drink. . . . Our laws must be so designed as to allow to each as much freedom of choice and self-reliance as possible. . . . Let us resolve therefore not to force the views of one section of the community on the other. When a reasonable self-reliant people have an unreasonable law imposed upon them they simply ignore that law with disastrous results to the legal institutions of the country. We learned this at bitter cost during the prohibition years. The greatest friend of temperance would not want to greet our men's return from abroad with the evil spectacle of prohibition. . . . I am convinced we cannot force the principle of moderation but we can teach it. . . . I appeal to the provincial authorities to so frame the regulations for retail sale that the business will be conducted in the open and on the highest ethical standards and not driven underground and to the bootleggers."

In view of the fact that Canada is faced with the menace of prohibition and that Prime Minister King's action in reducing liquor consumption has the effect of giving the prohibitionists an entering wedge, it is interesting to note preparations for the return of prohibition nearby in the United States where also the war has given this movement its great and long-awaited opportunity. The growing number of male voters going into the army increases the chance of widening the present dry area and the war gives the established pro[illegible] fertile propaganda that without prohibition there must follow military disaster. Heartened by the way it worked during the last war, they are humming, if prohibitionists do hum, "We did it before and we can do it again."

Talk about how alcoholic drink menaces the fighting efficiency of the nation goes from the mouths of the Anti-Saloon League and the Women's Christian Temperance Union straight into the anxious ears of parents whose sons are in military service. Such groups also exploit without foundation historical instances of defeat through alcoholic indulgence which could be laid to other causes of an entirely dissimilar nature. Bringing these false conclusions up to date, the prohibitionists charge any military set-backs to widespread drunkenness and likewise attribute German advances to the drastic control of liquor consumption, blame accidents in war industry to intemperance, and magnify the possibility of army sons being under the dangerous command of drunken leaders. Such talk frightens many parents and helps the march of prohibition.

According to the Christian Science Monitor, there are about 23,000,000 Americans living in the dry area, a smaller one than the dry area was when the United States entered the last war. Kansas, Oklahoma, and Mississippi are dry and the bootleg industry is a thriving one in those states. There were twenty-three dry states last time, it is true, but a Gallup poll today shows that thirty-six percent of the people want the liquor industry abolished and fifty-five percent want it regulated stringently. In considering the rise in prohibition sentiment the work of the Christian church groups for war-time liquor restrictions that pave the way must be taken into account.

Will Chasan, writing in the Nation recently, expressed the belief that the Nazis have seized upon prohibition in the United States as a divisive issue, and are trying to exploit it. Articles by Dr. Robert Hercod, secretary of the International Temperance Union at Geneva, which receives an annual subsidy from Germany, appear regularly in official publications of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, praising the "benevolent" attitude of the National Socialist regime toward the temperance movement. Mr. Chasan also points out that, according to the Boston Rumor Clinic, the German short wave radio broadcasts lurid accounts of drunkenness in army camps and urges mothers to demand prohibition for men in the services. Also, many American Fascists have become ardent prohibitionists, and the pro-Fascist publications at present out of circulation were for prohibition. One such paper, Publicity, still being published in Wichita, Kansas, asked: "How complete is the control of Sedgewick County night life by the Jews and wops?"

If prohibition comes to Canada and the United States it will mean that those who are opposed to it were overly confident after its last major defeat that the issue had been settled practically for all time. The crux of the whole liquor problem and the secret of its solution is the basic teaching of moderation but this seems to have been neglected. Too late or too little, the liquor industry has now been trying to end those visible abuses which incite the public against drinking. Long ago rumsellers and bar operators should have been enlisted to help in [illegible] to establish some sort of protection on the spot over young men who, alas, had never been taught moderation at home around the family board. If, as the speech suggested by the Canadian Breweries Limited says, moderation is the ideal which all good Canadians are eager to attain, it has to be taught to all good Canadians when they are tiny youngsters, and a nation-wide campaign in this direction should have been undertaken long ago.

Of all the groups living in Canada and the United States, the Jewish group has the greatest distaste for prohibition legislation. Jews would consider it a confession of terrible weakness and a shameful come-down for sons old enough in the national opinion to kill and be killed to have to be forcibly restrained from drinking. Such a measure is a disgraceful seal on the shortcomings of parents who are unable to inculcate habits of moderation in their children and must rely on outside enforcement as a substitute for what should be an inner self-discipline. Jewish parents are afraid of many things that may happen to their soldier sons but not that they will take to drink and therefore must not have any alcoholic liquor available to them.

One of the things that Jews fear is a prohibition law. Such a law makes youngsters think that drinking is smart and puts a premium on all forbidden fruit, encouraging abandon or relaxation of self-control. It deprives the mature and moderate for the sake of depriving the weak and gluttonous, and stigmatizes unjustly one of the good things of life as an evil in itself. It can never be enforced because it will be broken by respectable people who never broke a law before. If instituted, it will bring in bootlegging and a disregard for all lawful authority. In time it will be upset by those who are stung to impatience by stupid and senseless legislation prohibiting personal freedom. The nation will then be back around to the point where it can learn from the Jews how to deal with the liquor "problem" through teaching moderation in all things, the one and only sane and lasting solution.

E.I.A.

The matter becomes very grave for it supplies the enemies of Israel with a weapon against the historic claim of Palestine which should cause every Jew now to stand up and be counted. It seems to me that my fellow-Zionists could best answer the so-called anti-Zionists by strengthening the Zionist groups everywhere in the cause of Judaism and all it entails.

Let not the Zionists shout from the housetops and call names those who differ in interpretations. But let us Zionists prove the truths we proclaim by our own lives in our wholehearted identification not only with Eretz but also with Israel the world over, Israel the bearer of a moral heritage upon which hinges the destiny of civilization itself.

Let us stop debating, arguing and quibbling. Let us Zionists try to win those not yet convinced by our own examples of loyalty to that which is holy in Jewish life in Palestine and outside of Palestine. We Zionists can help much by confessing our own shortcomings. So many among us are Torah-less, synagogueless. Precious as the soil of Palestine is, the soul of Eretz Israel is best expressed by the universal teachings of the Jewish prophets. There is much room in Zionism to make the prophetic message meaningful and purposeful in individual Zionist strivings. Let us guard against chauvinism. Let us do all to rebuild Zion in Palestine and the spiritual Zion which embraces humanity.

Help The Jews Now

The New Republic says:

Though it has disappeared from the news, the Nazi campaign against the Jews of Europe has not abated. On the contrary, it seems to have increased in fury in recent months. By the end of October, the ghetto of Warsaw, which once housed 550,000 souls, contained fewer than 35,000; today it may already be completely empty. There is even a report from the Socialist underground in Poland that the Nazis are using the bodies of their Jewish victims to make soap and fertilizer in a factory at Siedlce.

The situation is so tragic, and the need for action so desperately urgent, that we find it hard to understand why the United Nations have not already set up a commission to deal with the problem. Such a commission has long been foreshadowed. Unfortunately, after weeks of talk it still has not taken shape.

One thing such a condition could do at once would be to persuade the neutral countries of Europe to open their doors to Jews fortunate enough to escape, and maintain the refugees in concentration camps, at the expense of the United Nations, for the duration of the war. The neutrals might even be able to persuade the Nazi satellite states to let the Jews go. We understand that one Balkan country which is allied to Germany has nevertheless appealed to the British to let it send its Jewish subjects to Palestine rather than to keep them until the Nazis get around to slaughtering them. The British have in fact already agreed to admit 4,000 Jewish children at once, but Palestine could hold many more, both children and adults.

There is so much that might be done, and so little time to do it—much more precious weeks be wasted before we get started?

WARNS POST-WAR RUSH OUTWARD TO BE STEMMED

sort to all the four methods mentioned. Every effort will have to be made, too, to keep the number down to manageable proportions. This could be done in two ways. First, as many as possible of the persecuted should be enabled to return to the countries from which they were expelled; second, causes which might otherwise lead to an immediate exodus of a new host of refugees should be removed."

Sir Herbert takes especial note of the fact that "Jews are suffering every form of prosecution that a diabolical ingenuity can devise. There are millions who would escape tomorrow if they were able to do so. No wonder that many regard these countries as places in which they cannot live in the future."

It is to stem this "centrifugal movement" that Sir Herbert suggests that "in imposing terms of peace (the United Nations) must at once annul all discriminatory legislation and end all administrative measures of discrimination. They must restore to the afflicted classes the rights of citizens and guarantee them safety and protection of life and property. These measures must have the sanction of military force. Then, this alone will not wipe out the legacy of hatred and prejudice which Nazism will leave behind. Time is the only real solvent."

More than 2,000 civilian Jews, from Poland, including 1,000 children who were stranded in Russia have been permitted by the Russian authorities to leave the country for Palestine.
